SI Figure 1. Adding human impact information to an existing flight interface. The existing interface is shown on the left, and the update with the human impact information is shown on the right. Experiments are needed to assess the impact of this kind of labeling, and level of context needed to orient buyers.